In other days, the world beheld the gentle, thind maid.
Who ever staid by mamma's side, of wiched men afraid:
Who worked out futury "samplers" and made the spinet sound.
Who blushed whenever spoken to and fainted if you frowned.
And yet the poets of that day her praises chose to pipe.
And made the medest violet her floral prototype.

Cream Tomatoes.

Octave Thanet gives a recipe for cream tomatoes which may be indulged in only if you have canned tomatoes whole or can get the fresh fruit. Fry them whole in butter; dredge carefully with flour and add a cupful of cream to the butter in the pan; season with salt and a pinch each of sugar and curry; baste with the cream and when this thickens the tomatoes are done.

Curls are Coming. Hair parted in the middle and drawn over the ears is looming in the horizon. The next thing will be the bunches of curls_ringlets is the proper word—which are to be seen all through the pages of Dickens, and which necessitate a parting across the head as well as towards the forehead. Even now there towards the forenead. Even now there are whispers of these curls having appeared in Paris, to the satisfaction of the hairdressers, I daresay, because hair is not plentiful nowadays, and so those who wish to be in the mode will have to buy false bunches and stick them on.

Rosa Bonheur.

Rosa Bonheur has survived most of her brothers and sisters. There were seven of them when she set out on her seven of them when she set out on her career. She is an old woman, small, sunburnt and wrinkled as a peasant. The gray hair is cut short, and is still thick. As she wears a blouse, she dons a cloth cap. The ribbon of the Legion of Honor is pinned on her breast. It was given to her by the Empress Eugenie, in speaking of whom she heaved a sigh and said: "Pauvre femme! Elle est si scule!" The accent of Bordeaux hangs on her tongue, but she has not hangs on her tongue, but she has not Gascon loquacity. Her eye is "atten-tive" and is still bright. Somebody spoke of her masculine habiliments. She said: "In my situation they were the most convenient and decent. I should have missed all chances of suc-cess had I had to bear the weights of the skirts in fashion thirty-six years

Maple Sugar Creams.

The body of this candy is the French cream which is given as a filling for chocolate and nut creams, only it should not be made as stiff. Grate into this enough maple sugar to color and flaver well, then add enough confectioner's augar to mold any shape that is desired.

Christmas Dinner Suggestions.

Young onions are delicately cooked by being lightly browned in a little butter and then stewed in stock until tender. Celery makes delicious fritters which are a natural accompaniment to turkey. The New Coats.

Both the umbrella skirted coats and the princess models in less expensive shapes extend down to about the middle of the length of the dress skirt of the wearer. They are made, as a rule, with wearer. They are made, as a rule, with wide Robespierre lapels and flaring cape collars, and with both double-breasted and open-vested fronts. Some of the stylish York coats have kilts set on below the waist line on the back, joining the centre pieces in a seam that is covered with trimming. Others have a full shirred width of the coat fabric, and athers again are similarly to the coat fabric, and others again are slashed to the waist in the style of a gentleman's box coat. Where's Mother?

Bright curly heads pop up all day To sak, "Is Mother here?" Then give an eager glance around And swiftly disappear.

She ought to wear a silver bell, Should tinkle out a cheery sound, Repeating, "Mother's near."

And then, if any little one Had something glad to tell. Or scratches, bumps, or tears, or tears, Or secret woes befoll,

No need to fiv from room to room, But simply listen well, And, like the happy little lambs, Just follow "Mother's" bell.

Selected Receipts.

Boiled Like of Murron.—Select a nice, firm, fat leg, and put in cold water, enough to just cover it; add a table-spoonful of sait, stand on the stove, skim well and boil slowly till done. Do not have it too well done. Serve it on a large platter, with the boiled turnips cut in slices laid around it, and deco-rate with parsley. Save the water in which it was boiled to make mutton beath the server of the server of the server.

broth the next day.

CAPER SAUCE.—Do not put one drop of water in this sace; make it of rich milk. To a quart of milk use a heaping tablespoonful of butter, a little salt, and, when it boils, thicken it with two heap-ing tablespoonfuls of flour, nicely blend-ed in cold milk. Stir it in with a fork, ed in cold milk. Str it in with a fork, so it does not get lumpy, but if there are any lumps strain it through a fine colender; then put in the capers with some of the vinegar in which they are preserved. This sauce must be thick to be good. Made with milk it is white as snow and most delicious. Made with water it is flat, stale and unpalatable. Young carrots are nice also with boiled nutton, and look pretty on the platter. mutton, and look pretty on the platter round the meat.

BROILED BACON-Remove the and dark outside edges and cut the bacon in very thin slices; lay them on a wire broiler close together and place the latter in a dripping pan; then put the pan and briler together on the upper grate of a hot oven. Watch the bacon carefully, as it will soon need turning, and will generally be broiled in four or or the part of and will generally be broiled in four or five minutes. This is a much easier method than to fry it in a pan on top of the range, and there is no smoke or burned fat as a result. If liked very dry the bacon may be drained on paper, but I generally find that it drips quite sufficiently into the pan. Do not forget that the handles of the broiler will be extremely hot after be-ing shut in the oven.

CHOCOLATE PUDDING—Soak a third of an ounce of gelatine in a little milk.
Dissolve four ounces of vanilla chocolate in a pint and a half of milk and boil in a clean pan for ten minutes, stirring all the time; flavor with a very little vanilla essence and sugar to taste; put into a jug to cool. Fut the soaked gelatine into a pan to dissolve it; let it also cool, then add to it the chocolate and mix weil. Pour, when almost cold, into a mold previously wet with water. When set turn out and serve with whipped cream round it. This pudding should be made the day before it is required. If liked a cup of strong coffee can be used in place of chocolate and is very refreshing.

A BRIDE-HUNTING PRINCE.

Difficulties With Which Victor Emanuel of Italy Has to Contend.

The long search for a bride made by the crown prince of Italy has ended, according to reports from Vienna and Rome, in the choice of the Archduchess Maria Annunciata, the daughter of Archduke Karl Ludwig and the Archduches Marie Therese of Austria. The princess was born in 1876, and is the sister of the Archduchess Margareta, who married the Duke Albrecht of Wuertemberg a year ago. It is sup-posed that the recent visit of Count Nigra to Vienna was made in connection with the rumored engagement of the young couple. Prince Victor Emanuel is now twenty-four years old. He is of medium height, perhaps a little below it, and of delicate build. Unfortunately for him. delicate build. Unfortunately for him, while not homely, he has not inherited the facial beauty of his lovely mother, Queen Margaret, long considered the handsomest princess in Europe. To the regret of the king and queen, their son was for years so backward and bashful that it was almost impossible to include the testing over a court result. induce him to attend even a court re-ception. He appeared to be afraid of every woman. Two years ago, when he was sent to Two years ago, when he was sent to join a regiment stationed at Naples, he seemed to overcome his fear of the fair sex, and soon started on a bride-hunting tour. But he met little success, failing to find fayor at most of the courts which he visited. For a time it was believed that he would choose an English princess, but the difference in religious belief made this improbable from the first. It was then said that the future queen would be a daugiter of the house of Orleans, but this, too, failed of realization. Greek and Russian princesses were mentioned in turn, eligions from the first.
